NOTES – The United States Department of State provides tax exemption cards to diplomatic missions and personnel whom they have determined to be exempt. The card issued to qualified personnel is entitled “United States Department of State Tax Exemption Card” and bears a photograph of the individual to whom it is issued. For a qualified mission, the card is entitled “United States Department of State Mission Exemption Card” and bears the missions name and a photograph of the representative authorized to make purchases on behalf of the mission. All cards have relevant identification data, a tax exemption number and an expiration date.
